

Hey girls... we're good for communities...

40
million
donations

350
community
partners

without our community partners,
donations wouldn't get to those that need them....

Our 350 community partners receive our matched products as donations to distribute directly to people in need.

They are youth groups, women's centres, food banks, outreach services and homeless shelters – fantastic people doing really amazing things in their communities.

We always commit to a constant supply of products to our partners so people that depend on these services never go without. so far we've donated almost 40 million products to people facing period poverty in the UK.

Our relationship with all partners is strong, working collaboratively to understand what their community needs from preferred product choices to accessibility barriers.

see where donations are helping...

Scan the QR code to see our live 'impact map' of all the locations our products are available for free!

click or scan

Huge thanks to those that buy from hey girls, without you, we couldn't donate products to those that need them!

from the community...

It really matters when people with lived experience come together and make change.

To others it might not seem like much to give a mum some pants but we know the difference it's makes, we are so grateful to be partnered with Hey Girls to allow us to give that to all of our service users who need it.

We have had many reports of 'happy periods' for the first time in years for those who've received donated products.

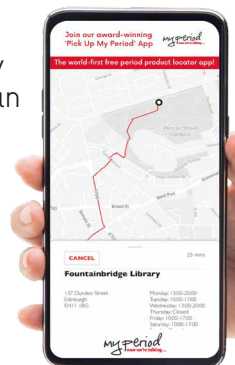

“to others it might not seem like much to give a mum some pants but we know the difference it's makes...”

from Latnem
a proud community partner
of Hey Girls

'PickUpMyPeriod'

Find free period products at your fingertips!

My Period, the charitable arm of Hey Girls has developed an award-winning app with over 2500 pick up points where people can help themselves to free period products in trusted community spaces.

We're proud to be opening up conversations around periods and championing universal access to products and education for everyone.

Want to be part of the impact?
Say hey to our partnerships team to purchase products that become donations:

b2beheygirls.co.uk