

hey girls...

we're good for cleaning companies...

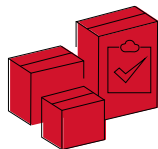

how GreenZone partnered with hey girls...

GreenZone are championing period dignity in the workplace by providing sustainable period products to their customers and offering free period products to their staff.

GreenZone elected to partner with Hey Girls to address and eradicate the social challenge of period poverty and because of the environmentally friendly products on offer.

wholesalers

sustainable choice

the need...

GreenZone wanted to offer their customers the opportunity to support Hey Girls and their mission to eradicate period poverty. Through the buy-one, donate-one model, the customers of GreenZone have been generating much needed period product donations and championing period dignity.

the impact...

GreenZone is proud to be a businesses championing the #PeriodDignity movement. Every order receives a branded poster and support which is a great to inform staff of the positive change their workplace is making.

the products...

GreenZone ordered ecofriendly period pads and 100% organic cotton tampons for places of work across London.

“we've got dispensers set up at our office and client sites to make supporting this cause super accessible.”

Steve Trew
MD at GreenZone

about the team...

We are delighted to be partnered with GreenZone, an incredible organisation seeking to offer sustainable cleaning services and bring social value to their customers. Together, we are ensuring that essential period products are readily available to their colleagues and their customers.

- Ailsa Colquhoun, Partnerships and Contracts Manager, Hey Girls

Want to get the period dignity conversation flowing?
Say hey to Ailsa now:
Ailsa@heygirls.co.uk

say hey...

